FAILURE TO COMPLETE VERIFICATION AFTER FEDERAL AID HAS ALREADY DISBURSED

- ❖ In some instances, a student is selected for verification after federal aid has disbursed. Once selected, no future aid may disburse until verification has been completed. If a student is employed under the Federal Work-Study program, they must cease working until verification has been completed. Students have 120 days from the last date of enrollment in the academic year to complete verification. If they fail to complete verification, all federal aid (except earned FWS wages) is returned to the federal government.
